

OFFICIAL NAVY PHOTO:
From Deputy Commander for
Military Government, Okinawa

KOREAN "COMFORT GIRLS" brought to Okinawa by the Japanese Army were gathered at Camp Koza in November and then repatriated to Korea. These girls were a constant source of trouble to Military Government from the time they were taken until they were sent home. Some of them worked in native hospitals as nurses in the early phases of the operation.